Hi everyone,

We took this photo for you at our holiday party so you can see everyone who brings their energy, spirit and creativity to the store.

As we enjoyed our time together we took a moment to share with each other the non-material things that we have each appreciated over the last year. The things we shared were diverse but the themes were unsurprising in that they are the things that nurture us all. At this time, when there is so much concern and uncertainty about the economy I'll share with you the things we reminded each other that we're grateful for:

Friends, family, colleagues, walks in the woods with the dog, health, quiet time, laughter, kindness, gentleness, each other and the community that we are all heart-warmed to be part of.

I hope that you'll make it into downtown over the next few days as it is sure to prompt an appreciation of your own. I walked down Main Street tonight, with my breath billowing in the chill, and was uplifted by the beauty that is in so many places. The wreaths and lights on each lamppost bring a sparkle to the whole street and all the stores have gorgeous window displays. When I walked into our store I got the lovely warm glow that so many of you describe as being one of the reasons you love shopping with us.

Many stores have extended hours over the next week and there is something particularly special about being in a bright, cozy store when it is dark, snowy and frosty outside. We will be open until 7pm on Saturday, Monday and Tuesday, with regular hours on Sunday (10am-6pm) and we'll close at 4pm on Christmas Eve so that we can enjoy the holiday with our families.

Wishing you all blessings this holiday season,
